Prestigious distinction

The Chedi Andermatt is once again the recipient of a prestigious award: as one of a relatively small number of luxury hotels in the world – and one of just five establishments in Switzerland – The Chedi Andermatt was recently awarded five out of five stars by the internationally renowned Forbes Travel Guide. Launched in 1958 as the Mobil Travel Guide, Forbes Travel Guide is the United States' longest-standing luxury hotel and restaurant guide, which today enjoys a world-class reputation as an independent global rating authority for luxury hotels, restaurants and spas. The experts of the Forbes Travel Guide travel incognito and objectively evaluate establishments around the world using a strict evaluation matrix comprising some 900 different criteria. The guide publishes its annual star ratings, reviews and travel stories online at www.forbestravelguide.com.

Seal of quality for discerning travellers

Jean-Yves Blatt, General Manager of The Chedi Andermatt, is delighted with the high-calibre award because Forbes Travel Guide enjoys a first-class reputation and high credibility in the luxury segment. «Only very few establishments in the world can boast five Forbes stars. This award makes us immensely proud; it encourages the entire team to redouble its efforts in terms of offering our discerning guests unique luxury and spa experiences and service excellence amid the inspirational Swiss mountains. The five-star rating and our strong presence in the 'Swiss Alps' section of the Forbes Travel Guide website shows how the Chedi philosophy succeeds in delighting guests around the globe,» says Jean-Yves Blatt.
